SCHOOL OUTLOOK GOOD

PRINCIPAL WHITE SAYS YEAR STARTS WITH INCREASED ENROLLMENT AND STAFF

Principal Richardson D. White of the Intermediate school is highly pleased with the prospects for the school year now opened. "At the opening of the school," he said, "we find that we have as many students enrolled as we had at the close of last year. That means that our enrollment this year will be very much larger. There is another enrollment in the middle of the term, and that will add greatly to our numbers also. "Extensive work has been planned in the line of nature study and agriculture. Although nature study is a compulsory subject in the public schools, there are few places where any pretense of adequately teaching this subject is made. Few universities or colleges give proper training to the teacher who desires to specialize in nature-study work. Interest is growing, however, and the appointment of Miss Helen White to supervise this study in the schools is a great step in advance.

"Miss White will establish school gardens in all of the schools having a sixth grade. This, of course, excludes the Intermediate and the Doran street schools. At the Intermediate school Miss White will give attention to floriculture, not agriculture. It is probable that a flat house will be established there for the cultivation of flowers.

As far as possible, the work that was done in connection with the summer playgrounds will be continued. All of the school playgrounds will be open in the evenings on certain days of the week. The Intermediate school playground will be open every day except Saturday. The work of the playgrounds will be under the able supervision of Mr. E. M. Polley, playground director for the school district. Two teachers have been appointed in each school to supervise the playground work. In short, everything has been carefully arranged in every department for active and efficient work, and there is every reason to expect a most successful year.

Following is the enrollment at the different schools:

Intermediate school, 269; Central, 118; Broadway, 200; Broadway kindergarten, 22; total Broadway, 222; Doran, 65; Pacific avenue, 154; Colorado boulevard, 158; Colorado boulevard kindergarten, 21; total, 179; Columbus avenue, 232; Columbus avenue kindergarten, 23; total, 255. Total enrollment, 1196; kindergarten, 66; grand total, 1262.

It will be noticed that we have added another kindergarten to the two we already had. This is in the Broadway school.

Several changes have been made in the teaching staff and additions made. In almost every case the new teachers are products of the Glendale elementary and high schools. Miss Marguerite Wetherby has been appointed music supervisor for all the schools. Miss Edna Jones, art supervisor for all the schools. Julius Lehman, who was playground superintendent during the summer, has been appointed instructor in penmanship in the Intermediate school. He will also teach other subjects. Miss Frances Jackson has been appointed teacher of English in the Intermediate school.

Miss Iva Hunter, teacher of history, spelling and geography, has been transferred from Columbus avenue school to the Intermediate. Miss Vera Sinclair has been appointed third grade teacher in the Broadway school, and Miss Lucille Nay has been appointed kindergarten teacher in the same institution. Miss Nay is a graduate of the Chicago Kindergarten institute.

In the Colorado boulevard school Miss Mary Circle has been appointed fourth grade teacher. She formerly taught at Riverside. Miss Ruth Pierce has been appointed third grade teacher. She is a product of the Glendale schools.

At the Pacific avenue school Miss Nellie Todd, a Glendale girl, has been appointed teacher in the second grade.

Columbus avenue school has a new fourth grade teacher, Miss Bertha Berry, a Glendale schools girl.

Central avenue has a new teacher of the fourth grade, Miss Vera McPherson, another product of the Glendale schools.

Doran street school has another teacher added to its staff, Miss Ethel Land, who has been transferred from third grade Broadway. Miss Land is a former Glendale student.

Trying to drown a gopher is about as effective as trying to eat soup with a fork or carry water in a sieve.

PLANS FOR THE YEAR

MRS. HUTCHINSON, HEAD OF THE FEDERATION, ENTERTAINS PRESIDENTS

Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, new head of the Parent-Teacher Federation of Glendale for the coming year, entertained the presidents of the various associations yesterday at a pretty well-luncheon at her home, 200 Orange street, when plans for the work of the coming year were discussed. Mrs. C. H. Toll, past president of the federation; Mrs. H. W. Yarrick, president of the Columbus avenue association; Mrs. J. W. West of the Central avenue school; Mrs. Ella Richardson of the Pacific avenue school; Mrs. L. W. Bosserman of the Colorado boulevard school; Mrs. L. W. Morehouse of the Broadway school; Mrs. Frederick Baker of the Intermediate; Mrs. C. H. Chandler of the Doran street school, and Mrs. Fred Hagen of the High school, with the gracious hostess, sat down at the beautifully appointed luncheon table. Old Sol was excluded and the mellow glow of artificial lights shaded in yellow cast a golden glow over the pretty table, where the decorations and the refreshments were carried out in the yellow color scheme.

After the luncheon plans for the coming year's work were discussed. The energetic president of the federation has made plans for a very full year, and her presidents grew more and more enthusiastic as she outlined and discussed the work with them.

Many new features will be introduced into the work this year, making it of inestimable value to the people of the community. Among the innovations will be a domestic science course for mothers at the High school, consisting of lectures on food values and demonstrations in the kitchen; also a circulating library of the publications of the National Congress of Mothers.

Other plans were made and discussed and these leaders of the Parent-Teacher associations left their hostess feeling that under her splendid leadership they were ready to take up the work of the federation in earnest.

REAL ESTATE MOVING

The slogan of the H. L. Miller Realty company is, "Glendale is on the move, and times are getting better." Strangers are coming into Glendale and many of them will eventually buy and build. The company has just sold a lot on Howard street north of the City Hall to a party who contemplates putting up an apartment house.

The six-room house at 1321 Dryden, belonging to J. T. Ashbury of Hollywood, was recently sold through the H. L. Miller Realty company of this city to W. M. Mabry of Montrose, Colorado. Mr. Mabry is in the dry goods business at Montrose, but expects soon to locate in Glendale.

Among the real estate deals recently consummated is one made by the H. L. Miller Realty company, 409 Brand boulevard, Glendale, whereby the fine 10-room house, valued at $7500, belonging to F. C. Waberton of Milford street, was exchanged for a five and one-half acre orange grove valued at $8500 on Orange Grove avenue, Pomona, belonging to W. D. Tadlock.

LOOKING FOR REPRESENTATIVE

W. H. Bell, factory representative for the Willys-Overland Co. of Toledo, Ohio, and H. L. Clarke, district representative for J. W. Leavitt & Co., coast distributors for Overland and Willys-Knight automobiles, have been in our city several days during the past week, analyzing the conditions in trade here. They have decided that a change in their representation in this district would be beneficial, and are considering several applications for the dealership.

CHAFFEE COMPANY BUILDING

The H. C. Chaffee company of Pasadena have let the contract to C. K. Robertson for the construction of a store building just across the alley south of the First National bank on Brand boulevard. The building will have a 50-foot front and a depth of 90 feet and be one story high. The conditions of the contract require that it be completed on or before Nov. 11. When completed it will be occupied by the Chaffee company as a basket grocery.

TELLS OF THE FAIR

MRS. GEORGE E. ADAMS GIVES GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION OF S. F. EXPOSITION

Mrs. George E. Adams, who recently returned from a two weeks' visit to the San Francisco Exposition, was entertained by her Sunday school class at the Congregational church on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Adams delighted her scholars and friends by giving them a graphic and entertaining description of what she saw at the fair. What follows is only a very small part of Mrs. Adams' excellent talk:

"Among the first things that struck me at the fair was the illumination of the grounds. As we entered the fair grounds toward evening we were suddenly arrested by the brilliant lighting up of the whole fairland by thousands of electric lights on every building. Here the famous Tower of Jewels, with its prism-cut adornments of vari-colored crystal reflected the lights in myriad colors, and it seemed as though the jewels that Aladdin had collected from his genii had all been placed on that wonderful tower. The topaz shades were particularly beautiful.

"Every other building was as brilliantly lighted and festoons of lights were everywhere. The inspiration and stimulation of so much light was wonderful. Light in every shape and form was around, above, beneath, and the crowds moved and swayed under its influence and felt happy."

Among so many interesting things it is almost impossible to pick out any one that was better than another. To some people one exhibit would appeal, to others another. I admired them all. I stood thunder-struck in the Machinery building, which, you will remember, is so large that the unfortunate Beachey flew inside its dome in his aeroplane. I was amazed at the enormous motors—motors of every kind—water motors, sunlight motors, motors for aeroplanes, motors for autos, motors for motorboats. Wheels were turning, shafts revolving and everywhere was power.

"I was particularly interested in the Postoffice department, where one could drop a letter or card in the mail box and follow it through its various handlings, through the big building until at last one saw it dispatched on its way to its final destination. In this manner I followed the fortunes of a card I mailed to my dear friend, Mrs. Williford, and saw it safely off."

"Another department of the government of the United States which attracted me very much was the United States mint. There I saw the gold as it was taken out of the earth. We went down into the ground and traversed the shaft and tunnels of a miniature mine, and saw ore taken out and sent up the shaft; then in another part of the building we saw moving pictures of various mining processes. Then we saw the actual gold come to the mint; we saw it cleaned and weighed and its value made out in government mint orders. We saw it melted and made into coin. Silver is treated in similar fashion."

"The Wells Fargo company had a transportation exhibit which showed the growth of that company from the time when it began with a one-horse wagon up to its latest automobile delivery truck."

"The Keen Kutter people had a most marvelous exhibit of cutlery and hardware. Among their exhibits was a clock entirely constructed of hardware. They also had a house fully furnished with their wares. This house was constructed on a miniature beach on which artificial waves thundered."

"In the Festival Hall I was fortunate enough to hear Edwin Lamore, the famous English organist, give a most wonderful recital on the great organ. We also visited the Zone and saw the Panama canal and other wonderful amusements. In the Department of Liberal Arts we were particularly struck with the futurist art. Here, also, we were furnished with telephone receivers and were able to listen to a lawyer in Los Angeles talking to another lawyer in New York. Over that telephone, also, we heard the sound of the waves breaking on the shores of the Atlantic ocean."

"On Admission Day we were fortunate enough to witness a most magnificent parade. We saw the life-saving crews at work and visited many of the native villages, where Eskimos, Indians and Filipinos lived in native happiness. I admired everything. It was all interesting. The French nation had a wonderful exhibit of fashions; Australia had all its wonders in its building; Canada surpassed them all, however, with one of the cleverest and most interesting exhibits I had ever seen. California, of course, was to the front of all

DEATH OF MRS. OLDS

PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY AT THE HOME OF MR. AND MRS. G. L. SMITH

One of the most steadfast and loyal of Christian mothers went to her eternal rest and reward when Mrs. Julia A. Olds passed suddenly from this life at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. L. Smith, 814 West Broadway, last night. Mrs. Olds was an energetic and busy woman, and was engaged in her usual duties yesterday. She was unusually happy in the return of her daughter from San Francisco yesterday afternoon, and busied herself in little duties for her comfort. She had planned to retire early and went to her room between 8 and 9 o'clock. Shortly afterwards she came out of her room into the hall, calling to Mrs. Smith that she had been taken suddenly with a very severe and peculiar headache. Almost immediately after Mrs. Smith had gone to her mother's assistance, Mrs. Olds lapsed into unconsciousness, from which she never rallied. Miss Pearl Olds, another daughter, who is a nurse at the Sanitarium, was summoned with a physician, but nothing could be done. Mrs. Olds passed from this life in the way she had often wished to go.

Mrs. Olds was born in Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 6, 1839, being the third white girl who was born in Milwaukee. She was married 56 years ago to Elder C. W. Olds, a minister of the Seventh-Day Adventist faith, and she was faithful and loyal to her husband and their faith through all the years. Elder Olds was called from this life six years ago. For the past three years Mrs. Olds had made her home with Mrs. Smith, spending a good deal of time with her other children also. She was very bright and energetic for a woman of her age, never so happy as when she was able to perform some little service for the members of her family, and others. During all her life as a minister's wife she never faltered in her duty to her children or her husband, and she leaves the memory of a blameless, loyal and self-sacrificing Christian life as a priceless heritage to the children who mourn her death.

Six daughters were born to Elder and Mrs. Olds, one of whom passed away many years ago. There remain Mrs. Graber of Minnesota, Mrs. Jeanette Smith, Mrs. Alexander Ritchie and Miss Pearl Olds of Glendale, and Miss Olive Olds of Los Angeles. She is also survived by three grandchildren and one sister, who resides in College View, Neb.

Funeral services have been arranged for 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Seventh-Day Adventist church. The Pulliam Undertaking company is in charge.

BURGLARS TAKE JEWELRY

During the absence of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Jackson, 102 South Maryland, from their residence Thursday night, between the hours of 7 and 8:30 o'clock, a burglar effected entrance to the house through a rear window and ransacked one of the bedrooms. He stole a nickel-plated, ivory-handled revolver and several pieces of jewelry. Apparently the burglar was in haste, as he neglected to take other articles of value. About four months ago Mr. Jackson's house was burglarized and jewelry and cash to the amount of $300 stolen. In the present instance the value of the goods stolen amounts to more than $50.

WOMAN'S CITY CLUB

After two weeks' vacation the Woman's City club of Los Angeles, which includes in its membership many of the leading ladies of Glendale, will open its work for the ensuing year. A meeting of the club will be held in Blanchard hall Monday at 12:45 p.m. Congressman W. D. Stephens will give an address on "National Defense." Congressman Stephens recently returned from a trip to the Hawaiian islands and has much that is interesting to tell of that is being done there by the United States to maintain that stronghold of the Pacific.

After an absence of about three years, Leo Stiles of Honolulu has returned to his home in Los Angeles, at 901 Edgeware, to visit his mother, Mrs. C. G. Stiles. On Friday he was calling in North Glendale at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Brown, 913 San Rafael street, and at the home of Mrs. C. D. Care, 905 San Rafael. Leo's old friends were pleased to greet him.

America with its State building and its native exhibits. In every way I enjoyed the fair and could have spent a much longer time exploring its wonders."

FISH AND GAME DISTRICTS

Senator Flint who should know something about the needs of California, in the way of fish and game legislation, recently fathered a bill, known as "The Districting Bill" Senate Bill No. 681 which makes some radical changes in the fish and game districts of the state. Until the passage of this bill the state had been divided into seven fish and game districts, so created that different parts of the state could have fish and game seasons that would conform to the different conditions of each.

Besides these seven districts many smaller reservations and refuges have in the past been created, such as Cache Slough, Napa River, Mokolumne River, Catalina Island, the two reservations in Monterey bay and many others. Laws have been passed regulating the fishing in several streams. A recent court decision has held that as the state has been divided into fish and game districts, as provided by the constitution, for the purpose of making appropriate laws for each respective district, a law to be constitutional must apply to the whole of one of the districts. The state has therefore been redistricted and divided into thirty fish and game districts, so arranged as to take care of these separate and different conditions. There are four main districts, Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4 which with the exception of a few game refuges, takes in about all the land of the state and might be called game districts in contradistinction to fish districts.

Districts from 5 to 23 inclusive are fishing districts, which cover the same territory and follow the same lines in conformity with the present laws covering the same. Districts 24 to 29 are game refuges, some of which are new. Some people think this is a complicated arrangement and say that a fisherman or hunter will never know the particular district he is in; but when one knows the present laws and the boundaries as defined at present, he can easily see that the new "districting bill" simplifies rather than complicates. Many special fishing districts have been cut out and the seven main or game districts reduced to four.

Other bills deal with other phases of the fish and game questions such as the bill introduced by Senator Kehoe which relates to the screening of irrigation and power ditches to prevent young trout entering such canals and getting lost. Still another bill introduced by Senator Mott makes a close season for black bass, in all districts except 3 and 4 from December 1 to April 30 inclusive, and makes the close season for Sacramento perch, crappie and sunfish in all districts from December 1 to April 30.

There are many other bills dealing with trout, salmon, salmon nets, Dolly Varden trout, shell fish and crustaceans, killing fish with explosives, shrimps and shrimp nets, golden trout, dealers and handlers of fish, trawlers, gill nets, lines, striped bass and shad, duties of Fish and Game commissioners, whiting, yellow fin and spot fin. It is therefore easy to see that the legislature has taken an intelligent interest in the preservation of the food supply from fish and game and is doing everything in its power to increase that supply and stop waste. How necessary such legislation is may be seen in the fact that despite game laws and such protection as has been afforded game and fish, there has been a steady diminution in game throughout the state and had it not been for the government restocking trout and other fish would have shared the same fate.

GEN. VILLA'S LATEST TRIUMPH

Villa, the great Mexican leader, has been variously described by different individuals, according to their political leanings, as a cutthroat villain, an illiterate and drunken scoundrel, a debauchee, an incompetent and purely venal brigand and many other names of which the above are a sample, only that they are translated into decent language and do not exhibit their native putrescence. On the other hand, honorable Americans, men of high character and responsible position have found Villa a patriotic and original leader of men.

Villa has a chequered history. To avenge an unpardonable insult to his sister, Villa shot the Mexican officer who had perpetrated the crime. The whole corrupt officialdom was immediately after him, thirsting for his blood. He took to the hills and successfully defied the rurales to capture him for many years. During that time he learned many virtues, and taught himself many things about military tactics, which he put into practice in his war with the murderous and usurping Huerta.

How well Villa learned his lesson during the days of his wanderings is seen in his latest battle in Sonora. Villa has been faring rather roughly of late. His army has not been so uniformly successful as it was in the beginning and he has been confronted with quarrels and betrayals among his own officers. Villa has dealt with these as best he could; but in many cases he has been crippled by these quarrels and desertions. It appears that Carranza is always outwitting with his officers and that the long course of the war has wearied many of them.

Still those who thought that Villa was out of the running in Mexico will be astonished to read the account of his most recent victory in Sonora, where he turned the tables on the Carranza forces by concentrating on them the fire of a large number of field guns and machine guns, killing and wounding large numbers and forcing 600 to surrender. According to that report which has been verified Villa is not out of the field.

When one remembers all that was maliciously circulated concerning national patriots of other days; of how Bruce of Scotland was maligned and vilified by the English; of how George Washington had every vile story circulated about him by those same foes and how his deeds were misrepresented and his moral character attacked, one need not wonder to hear the foul-tongued Mexican vilify Villa and call him every foul name in the repertory of unworthy epithets.

Gen Villa, of all those who are at present warring in Mexico has alone been modest enough to put his country's good before his personal aggrandizement. He is said to inspire confidence in all those who come in personal contact with him. Villa is sober and endowed with a marked degree of intelligence. He desires the freedom of his country and is working for the emancipation and education of the peon.

He is remarkably merciful and has always kept his men from committing outrages. He is a strict disciplinarian and has his men well in hand. Besides which he is a born tactician, as his most recent victory shows. A man who has been indorsed by Maj.-Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, is worthy of confidence. Gen. Scott says Villa is honest, of an admirable temper and also of tremendous force of character. It seems a pity that such a man could not be president of poor, distracted Mexico.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Sunday, Sept. 19—Topic, "World Ideals, and How Foreign Missions Will Promote Them." Dan. 2:36-45.

Seed Notes—There is one world ideal towering head and shoulders above every other world interest, and that is the reign of righteousness throughout the world. There certainly can be nothing more beautiful in contemplation than this. Universal peace! Only one thing in the world can bring about such conditions, and that is the Holy Bible. When nations are governed by it instead of passion, jealousy, hatred, ambition to exceed, then war, slavery and all oppression will cease. And there is nothing in the whole world outside of the Bible can bring about peaceableness among the world of nations. One universal brotherhood will not follow the rule, as today among the warring nations, that "might makes right," but justice, mercy and sympathy, tempered by patience, will be the predominating sentiment. And such can only materialize when nations as individuals thoroughly feel that its power in everything comes from God and not from puny man. And just as fast as nations learn and feel the unseen hand of God in their national affairs, will they begin to strive toward higher civilization and christianization.

Christianity through its missions has always taught the evil of inhumanity toward man; the degradation of war, its inconsistency as a Christian nation, its devouring of the nation's resources in both men and money, crippling of all sorts of industries and peaceful occupations, and generally upsetting in a few weeks more than can be built up in years. Today's terrible war costs more in one day than the entire Christian world spends on all its missions in one year. Far more Christian men have been martyred in this war than the missions can save in a year. It is awful! Missions always save a country, while war wastes and destroys. Let missions have full sway.

Universal peace, free intercourse, the reign of righteousness, universal education are all world ideals. In all these ideals it is expected that Christian nations lead the world. And among them all Christian influence through the missionary has opened more doors to world commerce than anything else. And where the army or navy has failed, missionaries, like heaven, have battered down the fortresses of opposition, and these are God's agencies "without hands" doing the mightiest for Him in the world.

NOVEL LIFE PRESERVER

John L. Edmund, a young Norwegian now in this country, has just invented a novel life preserver. From all outward appearances it is a traveling bag, which, like all other valises, carries shirts, razors, etc. It does that, but like no other valise, it can be expanded into "union suit" of waterproof trousers and coat, conveying the wearer through the most perilous seas. The bag is made to suit the purchaser as to shape, size and material. When in the water the bag need not be closed, for it will not sink. However, when the top is closed there is a window and two air valves, which may be locked from the inside. Food enough to last a number of days can be taken into the compartment. In short, it is an emergency hotel.

TROPICO

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Bahrenberg of "Twin Pines," on West Park avenue, entertained with a dinner party at their home recently, complimentary to Dr. and Mrs. William E. Bahrenberg and Mrs. J. E. Johnson of St. Louis, who were their house guests.

The children of Tropico are making the most of today, for this day closes their summer vacation and Monday morning will find them wending their way to school. The enrollment at the three schools—Los Cerritos, Magnolia and Marissa—promises to be above that of previous years. Some are anxiously awaiting the opening of school, while others are regretting that the happy vacation days are over.

Dr. Jason Morse arrived this morning from a six months' visit in Michigan and Canada, and is pleased to be at home once more with his sister, Mrs. Charles A. Barker, and nephew, Raymond Barker, of South Glendale avenue.

The Tropico Thursday Afternoon club is arranging a most interesting program for this season. Mrs. William C. Mabry, as chairman of the program committee, is indefatigable in her efforts to present a splendid program.

Eugene H. Imier, son of Mrs. David H. Imier of West Park avenue, who is a student in Throop Technology college of Pasadena, returns to the college Monday morning for his second year at this institution. Young Imier is one of the few students who was fortunate in securing quarters in the new dormitory of the college, and will thus return to Tropico for the week-ends only.

VALLEY VIEW

G. E. Bussow has moved from 1534 Oak street to North Louise street.

Mark Van Luven has sold his place at 1531 Colorado to Mr. Cluett, city mail carrier. The Van Luvens will move to their Burbank acre as soon as they can build a house on it.

F. C. Gilman and family moved on Tuesday from 1637 Oak street to Louise street, just across from the High school.

B. K. Kevit and family moved on Monday from 1615 Oak street to West Jefferson, near Vermont, in Los Angeles.

Mrs. G. W. Blake and little daughter, Arline, arrived at home Thursday from a three months' visit in the East. They went first to Montreal, Canada, where Mrs. Blake bade farewell to a brother who was off to the wars. She visited in Vermont, also, at the home of her husband's parents.

The work of clearing the vacant lots of weeds is being energetically pushed in this section of the city, but there still remains much to be done. Mrs. M. V. Kenyon of 1500 Oak street has been making daily visits this week to a friend who is near death.

MUFFS OF LONG AGO

With the tendency of fashion toward the pompadour period, there is an effort at the present time to bring back the tiny round muff just large enough to hold the hands. Though some of the shops are showing these muffs in the actual size of those of bygone days, others are introducing modifications of them. In general, muffs are to be worn much smaller than at any time in the last ten years, even when the little roll muff is not adopted.

STUNTS IN THE MOVIES

Supposing you were built on rather generous lines—about six feet or so altitudinously and fairly well horizontally. Supposing so, how would you like to:

Fall twice off moving automobiles?
Be pushed through a brick wall?
Be yanked up into the air on a steel cable?

Be rolled under the open spigot of a molasses keg?
Jump from a culvert onto the top of a moving freight train?

Jump from the aforesaid moving train into a little box?

Marie Dressler, comedienne, does all these things and a lot of other slightly less bone-breaking stunts in her new movie—and likes them. In fact, she is crazy about the movies and insists nevermore for the stage. She is taking a vacation just at present after working out "Tillie's Tomato Surprise," her new six-reel laugh-producer, in which she pulls off the stunts enumerated above.

"Yes," she remarked, "those stunts are a little hard on the nerves, and I've accumulated a number of bruises, but there was an awful lot of fun in making the picture. In one scene I am supposed to be pushed through a brick wall. Naturally we built that wall with watery mortar, not expecting it to stick together very much. But something intervened and we couldn't take that particular scene on the afternoon the brick wall was constructed. The next day when we came to filming it, we found the mortar had dried—and I want to tell you that it was a mighty hard brick wall that I was rammed against."

Miss Dressler is a great movie booster and is advising all her stage friends to take up the work. She had a private exhibition of the new film at the Gedney Farms hotel, White Plains, N. Y., recently, and invited William Courtney and his wife, Virginia Harned, Louise Dresser, Ethel Barrymore and a host of other stage stars to witness the film. All through the evening she was as nervous as if she was going through the "first night" of a real stage show.

DOG MAKES EXCELLENT SPY

How an apparently innocent shaggy-coated dog proved to be a German spy was told the other day by wounded Canadian soldiers arriving from the front in Northern France.

Near the firing line there stood a coffee house inhabited by five persons, including a little boy. On their way to the trenches the soldiers often stopped for refreshments, the occupants of the coffee house thus having excellent opportunity to collect valuable information regarding the troops in the neighborhood. Singularly, the Canadians observed that their every move was known to the Germans in the opposite trenches. In one instance a regiment of Canadian troops moved unexpectedly to relieve a regiment of Scottish Camerons. Even the Scottish officers were unaware of the coming of the Canadians. No sooner, however, than the Canadians had taken their posts the Germans shouted across to them:

"Hello, Canadians! Come out and fight."

The coffee house was immediately suspected. It was the only place to suspect. A raid found nothing. Later, however, a Canadian soldier loitering in the neighborhood of the coffee house heard conversation in German. He quickly informed some comrades and a second raid was made. Like the first it availed nothing. Finally one of the soldiers resorted to bluff. The little boy then gave up the secret. The dog had been conveying messages to the German line. The Canadians had often seen the animal wandering about the trenches and had often patted it. An investigation proved that the animal wore a false coat of shaggy hair. Under this the messages were placed by the spies in the coffee house and the dog trotted calmly off to the German trenches, where he always found rest and food with the Germans. The spies were arrested. Their fate has not been told.

THE CALIFORNIA DEVELOPMENT BOARD ACTS AS STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

In the spacious Union Ferry building of San Francisco, the most centrally located headquarters in the city and the gateway through which pours ever a crowd of visitors from all parts of the country, is to be found one of the most interesting and valuable bureaus in connection with state work which any city can show. With extraordinary diligence and success the California Development board, which manages and superintends the work of this bureau, has brought together in this place one of the most interesting and extensive exhibits of the state's products ever collected and arranged.

Thirty-seven counties have sent specimens of their principal products and one can set forth in orderly manner the nature of any of the counties of California. There are more than 5000 glass stands containing a most complete collection of minerals, fruits, vegetables—in short, a complete collection of the products for which the state is famous.

In fact, what the California Development board tries to effect is to exploit in a conservative, trustworthy manner the resources of the state and to work along with the civic and commercial organizations and county governments for local and state development. In addition to a large individual and corporate membership, this board is in close affiliation with nearly 600 commercial and civic bodies throughout the state. The board has no connection with any land company. It co-operates with any municipality, county or section in local activity, since the advancement of any locality enriches the state as a whole.

By means of a free information bureau data covering every part of California and every industry can be obtained by any party seeking such details. All this information is carefully classified by counties and by subjects. Much of it is nowhere else available. It includes manuscript reports of the board's field workers. There are also topographic, climatic, irrigation, forestry, railroad, steamship and highway maps of the state, as well as maps of counties and cities on a large scale.

Half a million booklets containing information concerning counties and cities are distributed at the information desk every year, while the questions answered run into the millions. Lectures on the state as a whole and on the state by counties are given continuously from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., illustrated by means of stereopticon slides and moving pictures.

All through the state trained men are making observations, surveys and collecting data about the state's resources, industries and possibilities. These reports are classified and are very valuable. Thousands of inquiries of every kind come from all parts of the country and of the world daily. These are carefully attended to. Newspapers and magazines are supplied with special articles and representatives of the board attend many conventions and gatherings in the interest of the state.

This most efficient and useful board is composed of official representatives appointed by the boards of supervisors of thirty-seven counties of the state, together with one representative from each active membership in the board. Active members consist of persons and firms subscribing $10 or more a month.

PAINT FOR FANCY SHOES

If you have laid in a stock of fancy shoes, do not throw them aside when the fashion for colored stitchings and patches departs. There has just been introduced a special black oil paint which can be applied to them, and will render them a match for the quietest and most conservative of street suits.

COLLEGE COLORS IN HOSE

Sport stockings for tennis, boating and other outdoor pastimes are of heavy white cashmere, hand-embroidered, in triple clocks, in all the college colors. The middle clock is usually white, with the colors on either side. They are to be worn with belt and tie to match.

MUSTARD PICKLE

Vegetables—1 pint whole cucumbers, 1 pint sliced cucumbers, 1 pint small whole onions, 1 cup beans, 3 green sweet peppers, 3 red sweet peppers, 1 pint green fig tomatoes, or 1 pint cauliflower.

Dressing—1 quart vinegar, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons powdered mustard, one-half tablespoon turmeric, 1 teaspoon celery seed.

GOOD-BYE STRAW HATS.

Forty thousand straw hats will go up in smoke tonight, when the Retail Merchants' board of Dayton, O., will open the annual fall style show in that city. For the past week city and rural boys have been sneaking father's hat to the big pile.
